

D'Vond
connecting said at least one polysilicon gate to a voltage source for producing latch-up in said multi-region planar thyristor, whereby said thyristor transitions from a first one to a second one of said at least two possible current states.
